

Educational Resource Library

Access thousands of online resources to enrich the learning environment

The Web is full of valuable content—these days, much of it dynamic; much of it dispersed; much of it blocked by traditional content filters. The Educational Resource Library brings together thousands of safe, educational resources, including videos, documents, websites, wikis, blogs and more. When used with My Big Campus, users can easily access, share, and integrate these resources for research and lessons—without worrying about them being blocked.

With the Educational Resource Library, you can:

View and share thousands of videos, websites, documents, and more.

Access dynamic content traditionally blocked by filters.

Engage students by integrating online resources into lessons.

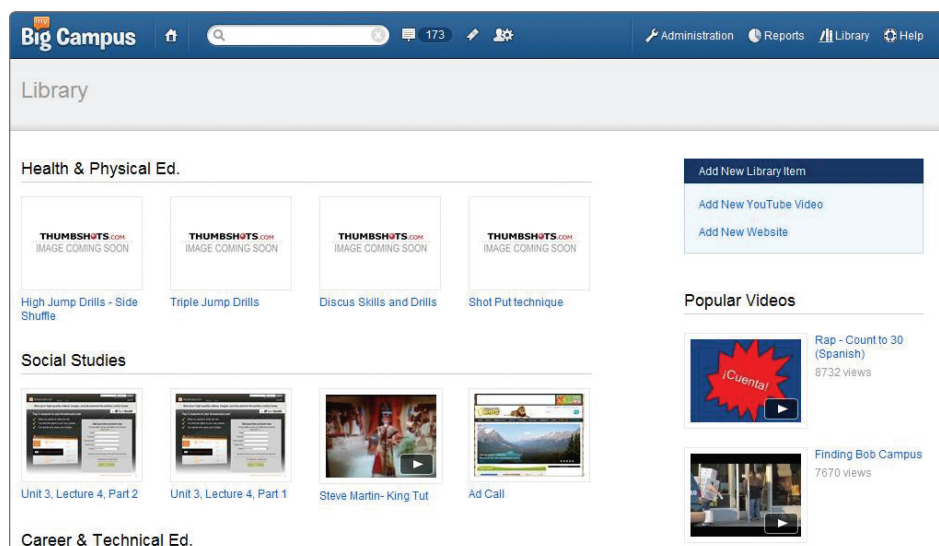

Keep students safe with CIPA filtering, monitoring and peer flagging.

Supplement text books and instruction with multimedia.

Allow YouTube videos, without risk of inappropriate peripheral content.

FEATURES

- User-submitted and Lightspeed-submitted resources.
- Flexible sharing permissions, to control who can view your submissions.
- Ability to limit proprietary content to just your district.
- Subject-matter categories for easy browsing.
- Grade-level recommendations.
- Peer flagging.
- CIPA-compliant filtering on submissions.
- Tags and summaries for easier searching.
- Stripping of peripheral content in YouTube videos.
- Easy access to most popular and newest library additions.
- Integration with My Big Campus to include library items in Collections, Discussions, Assignments, and more.

Browse or search thousands of videos and documents organized by core curriculum subject.

“Now, with the Educational Resource Library, teachers can safely use YouTube. Teachers share the content they want, but the library strips out all of the comments and links.”

— Mike Shellenberger,
Systems Administrator,
IU 13

Educational Resource Library

Integrate Web 2.0 Resources with My Big Campus

My Big Campus is changing the way schools think about filtering, by extending the classroom into an engaging online environment that's integrated with the filter. With My Big Campus, you can integrate all the items from the Educational Resource Library into lessons, assignments, discussions, collections, and more.

The screenshot shows the Big Campus interface. At the top, there's a navigation bar with 'Big Campus', a search bar, and user information (173). Below the navigation bar, the main content area features a video player titled 'Meaning of a Fractions and Equivalent Fractions'. The video player shows handwritten mathematical examples: $\frac{3}{3} = 1$, $\frac{5}{5} = 1$, $\frac{100}{100} = 1$, $\frac{a}{a} = 1$, $\frac{10}{1} = 10$, $\frac{8}{1} = 8$, and $\frac{a}{1} = a$. Below the video player, there's a description: 'Meaning of Fractions, Equivalent Fractions, Fractions with 0 in numerator or denominator, fractions with 1 in the denominator'. The category is 'Mathematics', tags are 'Fractions, Equivalent Fractions', and the grade level is '9th Grade - 12th Grade'. To the right of the video player, there's a list of 'Most Recent Additions to Mathematics' with links to various resources like 'Limit Laws to Evaluate a Limit', 'Circumference and Area of Circles', and 'Triple O (Order of Ops)'. The interface also includes a search bar, navigation icons, and a help link.

Easily find resources, which are tagged by type of content, grade level, subject, keywords, and description.

The Educational Resource Library is available as a hosted solution.
